

Population with standing genetic variance can withstand higher stress

Population with standing genetic variance can withstand higher stress

ER is more likely from SV than from DN mutations

Population with standing genetic variance can withstand higher stress

ER is more likely from SV than from DN mutations

The proportion of ER from standing variance is roughly constant with  $r_D$